WARRIORS HOOPS FOR KIDS PROGRAM TO DONATE OVER $440,000 FOR UNDERSERVED YOUTH IN THE BAY AREA
Club To Host Recipients At Tonight’s Game Against Denver; Warriors To Hold On-Court Check Presentation At Halftime; Team Grants Over $1.5 Million During 2014-15 Season

OAKLAND, CA – The Warriors Community Foundation, in partnership with the Koret Foundation, Taube Family Foundation and Pacific Gas and Electric Company, this season continued the Hoops for Kids program, where Warriors achievements on the court support underserved youth in the Bay Area, it was announced today. Through Hoops for Kids, every Warriors three-pointer made during the 2014-15 regular season yields $500 toward eight organizations working locally to improve educational opportunities and life outcomes for kids. To date, the Warriors have hit a franchise-record 870 three-pointers this season (as of April 14, 2015), the third most single-season three-pointers in NBA history, raising $440,000 and counting for Hoops for Kids.

“Continuing to provide opportunities for at-risk youth in the Bay Area is the reason we launched the foundation to begin with, so it is amazing to see how much we have been able to donate in just two years to those in need in our community,” said Warriors Co-Executive Chairman and CEO Joe Lacob. “Continued investment from partners like the Koret Foundation, Taube Family Foundation and PG&E truly help us make a difference in the lives of these youth.”

During pre-game of tonight’s game against the Denver Nuggets from 5:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m., the Warriors Community Foundation will host a reception in the Warriors Lounge for Hoops for Kids presenting sponsors and beneficiaries. In addition, the program will be recognized on-court with a check presentation at halftime.

“The Taube Family Foundation and Koret Foundation are longstanding advocates of Bay Area youth organizations,” said Ted Taube, Founder and Chairman of Taube Philanthropies and President Emeritus of the Koret Foundation. “We are gratified and proud that we can join with the Warriors Community Foundation to partner in a program that enhances our mutual commitment and has a significant impact on underserved youth in the communities we serve. Collaborative philanthropy, through which like-minded organizations come together to further amplify individual contributions, is setting a model right here in the Bay Area. We hope others will open their hearts and wallets to follow.”

Including the Hoops for Kids program, the Warriors Community Foundation will have committed more than $1.5 million in total giving over the 2014-15 season to youth development. On November 5, 2014, the Foundation announced $1 million in grants to support 32 Bay Area organizations working in college access and readiness, elementary literacy and early childhood development for underserved youth in Alameda and San Francisco Counties. This year’s Hoops for Kids program supports:

- Boys & Girls Clubs of Oakland – providing safe places to learn and grow, life-enhancing programs and hope and opportunity
- Boys & Girls Clubs of San Francisco – inspiring and enabling young people to realize their full potential as productive, responsible and caring citizens
- CodeNow – diversifying the talent pipeline of students who pursue computer science and technology
• East Oakland Youth Development Center – developing social and leadership capacities in youth to excel in education, career and service to their communities

• Edgewood Center for Children and Families – promoting the behavioral health of children, youth, and families and supporting a positive transition to adulthood

• Juna Ventures – providing employment in social enterprises to help low-income youth achieve a college degree and break the cycle of poverty

• Playworks – providing play and physical activity at low-income schools, helping children connect with other kids and grow physically, emotionally and socially

• Positive Coaching Alliance – developing better athletes and better people by providing young athletes with a positive, character-building youth sports experience

About the Warriors Community Foundation

The Warriors Community Foundation is dedicated to making a meaningful and lasting impact on the lives of underserved youth in the San Francisco Bay Area. Specifically, the Foundation strives to improve educational outcomes among children in Alameda and San Francisco Counties. Established in 2012 under the new Lacob and Guber ownership group, the Foundation extends the team’s impact locally and continues a longstanding tradition of community involvement. It is sustained by generous contributions from Warriors owners, players, partners and fans. For more information on Hoops for Kids, visit warriors.com/kids.

About the Koret Foundation

Based in San Francisco and founded by Joseph and Stephanie Koret, the Koret Foundation supports organizations that promote a vibrant and distinctive Bay Area region, with major initiatives in Israel and Poland. Koret focuses giving in two major areas: building connectivity and identify within the Jewish community, and strengthening Bay Area anchor institutions. Since its founding 1979, Koret has invested nearly $500 million to contribute to a higher quality of civic and Jewish community life. For more information, visit koret.org.
